Don't Gamble on Winter Driving

THE SAFE WAY IS TO HAVE YOUR CAR SERVICED BY US

EVERY WINTER many owners are obliged to spend large sums of money to repair damage which never would have occurred had proper precautions been taken. That's good business for us, but mighty bad business for you. If you have the essential check-up and adjustments made NOW that's good business for both of us, which is what we want. We do not want you to buy anything that is not required—we realize that low maintenance cost on your present car will influence you when making future purchases. We, as the dealer, are interested in you, as an owner, and make the following suggestions for your benefit.

COOLING SYSTEM. Reverse flush the radiator and cylinder block to remove rust and sediment. Check water pump, hose connections, cylinder head gasket, and other points where leaks might occur. Adjust fan belt. INSTALL ANTI-FREEZE.

LUBRICATION. Change motor oil, transmission, and rear axle lubricant to winter grade. This will insure easier starting and proper lubrication of gears and bearings in cold weather.

BATTERY & ELECTRICAL. To avoid the annoyance of a dead battery have it checked now. Terminals should be clean and all connections tight. Generator charging rate should be increased to supply the additional current needed for heavier winter requirements.

WINDSHIELD WIPER. To avoid faulty windshield wiper operation have hose connections and blades renewed—clean and lubricate wiper mechanism.

BRAKES. Whether or not brakes are now operating correctly, they should be inspected before cold weather for linkage lubrication and proper adjustment.

LIGHTS. The State law requires that lights be properly focused and in good condition. We will check the bulbs you now use, or, if you wish, install and properly focus the newest type of light bulbs, as well as resilver reflectors and replace lenses when necessary.

STEERING & WHEEL ALIGNMENT. Faulty steering may cause an accident, particularly on wet, slippery roads, besides causing excessive tire wear. Steering gear, connections, and wheel alignment should be checked and adjusted as necessary.

TIRES. Serious damage from blow-outs and skidding often caused by badly worn tires. Let us quote you our prices on tire equipment. To keep tire costs down be sure to maintain the correct pressure.

HEATER. A modern hot water heater can be installed in your car at a low price that anybody can afford to pay, the comfort of which nobody can afford to be without.

Much criticism of the local Board of Assessors is current in town owing to changes in valuations of local property and resultant increase in individual taxes.

Mount Greylock, the highest peak in Massachusetts was snow capped last Thursday morning and could be plainly seen from various places in town as a white cone. About one inch of snow had fallen and the thermometer registered 26 degrees.

The Franklin County Northfield Club postponed its meeting on account of the death of Wm. R. Moody, and will meet at "The Georganna," in Ashfield, on Saturday, October 28th. Business meeting at eleven o'clock. Luncheon, special music and Miss Mabel Cooper of the Seminary faculty will be the speaker.

Directors of the Northfield National Bank voted last Monday evening at their regular meeting to increase the capital stock of the bank to $35,000.

The Editor has received a letter from Mrs. J. Cheatham of San Francisco saying she lived in Northfield as a child but has been in California for the past thirty years and hopes some day to visit here again as she has pleasant memories of Northfield and the work of the summer conferences.

Seminary students will hear Mr. John Lomax an authority on American folklore and cowboy songs in Silverthorne Hall on Saturday evening November fourth. Mr. Lomax will describe the life of a rancher in the west and sing some of the songs of the plains.

If any one has any second hand clothing, Mrs. F. S. Merrifield, President of the Ladies' Society, will be glad to receive it. Telephone 86-2. Go through your clothes presses and trunks and give to us what can be spared. We will make good use of it.

Mr. Douglas Taylor who is now located with the Webster Printing Co., at Webster, Mass., spent the week-end with Mrs. Carrie G. Britton at her home here.

The weather here has been unusually cold following the heavy rains of the first of the week. On Wednesday snow flurries were seen about Northfield. The coldest weather at this time of the year for many years. The thermometer recorded 24 degrees above Thursday morning.

SOUTH CHURCH

Rev. Mary Andrews Conner Minister

9:45 a.m., Church School; 10:45 a.m., Church Worship. Owing to the giving of the report of the General Universalist Convention held at Worcester the service as announced for last Sunday was not conducted. This Sunday Mrs. Conner will build the worship service around the significance of what was done in the Valley of Baca. 7 p.m., Young People's Meeting led by Virginia Mann.

The young people will have a Halloween party Monday, Oct. 30 from 7 to 9:30 p.m., in the vestry.

Friday, November 3rd the women of the Alliance will put on their annual fair and supper, followed by an old fashioned dance all to be held in the Town Hall. The fair will open at 4 o'clock, the supper will be served at 6:30, and the dance begin at 8 o'clock.

Seminary Items

Miss Alice Whitney, a senior at Northfield Seminary spent the week end at the home of her father, Mr. Ernest D. Whitney at Mount Hermon.

The speaker at both services in Sage Chapel last Sunday was the Rev. A. G. Butzer, D. D., of Buffalo, New York. The subject of his morning talk was "Testing All Things by the Light" and at Vespers "Moral Courage."

The speaker at the morning service in Sage Chapel next Sunday will be the Rev. Buel S. Gallagher, president of Talladega University, Talladega, Ala., brother of Mr. Melvin Gallagher, Director of Music of The Northfield Schools. The speaker at the evening service will be Dr. William Powers, Dean of Syracuse University.

The juniors and seniors of the seminary celebrated on Monday their traditional junior-senior picnic. The girls started at 11:30 and hiked to the Louise Andrews camp, which is unusually resplendent in color at present. Upon their arrival they were greeted by a retinue of hamburgers, potato chips, pickles, cider, coffee, and fruit. Among the faculty guests were Miss Wilson Miss Victoria Freeman, senior class advisor, and Miss Keller, junior class advisor. After the picnic games were enjoyed and all of the girls were safely in their halls for afternoon classes.

In addition to circulation of five dollar bills that are counterfeit as noted elsewhere in the Herald the discovery has been made that ten dollar bills have been found as counterfeit in circulation also. One of the bills seen was of the 1928 B series of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. It is easily detected when compared with a regular bill of that issue as it is much heavier tinted and the back is not tinted to the extent of the genuine note.

A one dollar bill that is counterfeit has made its way to the Northfield National Bank and may be seen upon request of the cashier.

You, Too, May Enjoy a Planned Kitchen

Time was when it was considered necessary to build a new home in order to enjoy the advantages of a modern, planned kitchen. Then the kitchen was acquired as a unit.

Nowadays, though, you'll find that there's a planned kitchen available for your present home a modern all-electric kitchen that measures up to your fondest dreams.

What's more — having made your plans, you can start enjoying your electric kitchen by degrees: first your electric range, the heart of the modern kitchen, with its many advantages,—then your electric refrigerator, and so on.

Ask your dealer to help you plan an ideal electric kitchen for your home. He'll gladly make worthwhile suggestions.

EDITORIAL

With this issue of The Herald the Editor lays down his pen to retire from its editorial and advertising responsibilities.

Enriched by a large circle of devoted friends and business associates, the work of the newspaper has been most interesting and alluring and to all those who have assisted in this endeavor, the Editor desires to make his grateful acknowledgments. In the effort to maintain and produce a weekly paper following in the wake of the old Northfield Press, the very best interest of the community and its citizens have been uppermost in mind.

To those who have aided in providing news, writing the stories, the poems and reports as well as to the paper's correspondents the Editor says "thank you" for all courtesies and to all those engaged in the mechanical work in providing the finished printed sheet, the Editor again says "thank you."

The higher men climb, the longer their working day. And any young man with a streak of idleness in him may better make up his mind at the beginning that mediocrity will be his there. For to keep at the top is hard. Without immense, sustained effort, he will not be high. And even though fortune or chance were to lift him high, he would not stay there. For to keep at the top is harder almost than to get there. There are no office hours for leaders. —Cardinal Gibbons.

Convincing proof that the country is slowly but steadily being lifted out of the business slump, is reaching N. R. A. headquarters in Northfield.

The local committee is in daily receipt of bulletins, messages and reports from Washington which show how the country everywhere is being lifted into step with the great recovery march. As a rule statistics are rather dry reading, but in the figures that reflect this upturn, we behold the unfolding of a great human drama. In time of war we are stirred to our depths by reports of victories at the front. The present reports of people going back to work, of more money being placed in labor's pay envelopes, of increasing prices for farm products as compared with a year ago and of a general reawakening, are also extremely significant. Behind these figures we see happiness in millions of homes where there was only despair a few months ago. Surely good news.

Poet's Corner

THE CAMPFIRE

Did you ever watch the campfire
When the wood has fallen low,
And the ashes 'gin to whiten
Round the embers' crimson glow
With the night sounds all about you

Making silence doubly sweet,
And a full moon high above you
That the spell may be complete?
Did you ever sit there thinking
'Mid your pipe's gray pungent breath.

While the fire's last feeble flicker
Met a magic glow worm death?
Tell me, were you ever nearer
To the land of heart's desire
Then when you sat there smoking
With your feet up to the fire?
Hector Donald

GRIEF

Say, what is grief, I asked a Seer, Bowed with the weight of eighty years.
Is it what scars a Mother's heart
When standing by her first born's bier?

Or is it when a Mother sees
Her Son go forth at freedom's cry,

Bearing aloft his Country's flag,
To fight, to bleed, perchance to die!

Or is it when the heart grows cold,
And death's dark shadows
drearly fall;
When friends have fled and hope is gone,
We listen for the final call?

"Nay, say not so," the Seer replied;
Those causes mentioned trivial are;
Go seek the maid who has loved and lost,
'Tis there you will find grief's deepest scar.

For her no husband comes at eve;
No childish prattle heralds the dawn,
Of hope bereft this side the grave
In silence bears her cross alone.

FRIENDS

(By Edgar A. Guest)

If you had all the lands and gold
It's possible for man to hold,
And if on top of that could claim
The greatest sum of earthly fame,
Yet had to live from day to day
Where never human came your way, You'd trade the gold you had to spend

To hear the greeting of a friend.
'Tis friends alone that make us
rich,
Not marble busts in glory's niche;
Not money, wisdom, strength or skill.
'With happiness our lives can fill.
With all of these we still should sigh
If never neighbor happened by
And no one shared from sun to sun
The honors that our work has won.

For fame is born of others' lips,
Friends pour the wine the victor sips;
And friends make rich the yellow gold
By which all earthly wealth is told.

Possession nothing means unless
We share the joys that we possess.
Pride is the brightest gem we own
If we must know its charms alone.
What joy could come from splendid deeds

That no one ever cheers or heeds?
Fame would be empty and absurd
If of it no one ever heard.
The richest man without a friend
Is poor with all he has to spend;
Alone with all that could be had
A human being would be sad.

Not in ourselves does fortune lie, Nor in the things that gold can buy;
The words of praise that please

The lips of other men must tell;
And honor on which joy depends,
Is but the verdict of our friends.
All happiness that man can know
The friends about him must bestow.

KITTENS

Tiny tufts of cunning fur
Racing about the room,
Tearing paper from the walls,
Pulling whiskers from the broom.
Rolling, biting and jumping,
Frisking in fun and play,
Chasing the spoils in circles
Always the live-long day.
Mother stands by to watch you,
You fall to heed her call;
She gently mews her warnings,
'Murr-murr' you scam and fall.
You cuddle within her breasts
And sup of her sweet milk;
She washes you inch by inch
Until you shine like silk.
Then she purrs a lullaby
And sleeps along with you
To guard you from the goblins
As kitty mothers do.

The lunch Thursday consisted of chipped beef and cream, baked potato, cabbage and pineapple salad and apple pie. Tuesday it was scalloped salmon, potato salad, Welsh rarebit and cottage pudding with chocolate sauce.

Friday Mr. George Smith told of interesting discoveries that have been made about cliff-dwellers. He spoke especially of those at the Mesa Verde National Park.
Tuesday morning the Reverend E. W. Gould of Round Lake, New York talked about some boys and girls whose progress he had watched through high school and college.

Mt. Hermon Items

The first Senior party of the year was held Saturday evening at Mount Hermon for the Hermon Seniors and the Seniors from Northfield Seminary. Following supper in West Hall, the Seniors enjoyed a dance in the James Gymnasium, after which they attended the entertainment at Camp Hall.

Miss Kay Rogers of Northfield Seminary spoke last Sunday morning to the Socialist Club on "Why I am a Socialist." The Socialist Club has recently been formed with Mr. Melvin Gallagher, director of choral music, and Mr. Eugene Link of the History department as advisers.

On Tuesday afternoon and evening groups of the students attended the presentation of two Shakespearian plays, Julius Caesar and Macbeth, given by the New York Shakespearean Players at the Greenfield High School.

Sunday morning Dean Powers of Syracuse University will speak at the chapel service. Buell Gallagher, president of Talladega College and the brother of Mr. Melvin Gallagher, will address the students at the Sunday evening vespers.

Two of the members of the Class of '33 have distinguished themselves in college athletics this fall. Tabor Polhemus of Northfield has been elected captain of the freshman cross-country team at Mass. State College, and Wilbur Woodland of Watertown, Mass., has recently been elected captain of the freshman cross-country team at Yale University.

Raymond Crawford and Charles Lawrence, both of Northfield have been elected into membership in the Good Government Club.

On Thursday, October 19, the Senior class held its annual Mountain Day and journeyed to Mount Monadnock.

Miss Annie Herring and Mrs.
Beulah Cooper, school dietitians, recently entertained the Senior class at a dinner in West Hall.
Miss Marjorie Burbank of Newton Center, Mass., and Miss Jane Baker of Danbury, Conn., were the guests of Miss Mary Baker last week-end.

Miss Dorothy L. Hopper of Englewood, New Jersey, was the week end guest of Mr. Thorleif M.
Henriksen, assistant physical director.

Last Tuesday evening, Mr. Winston Stevens from the Educational Records Bureau spoke to the faculty on methods of measuring the mental capacity of students.

Miss Ella Mowry of Leubec, Maine, was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Forslund. Miss Mowry was a classmate of Mrs. For-slund's at Northfield Seminary.

Greenfield Light Co.

To Change Its Name

A meeting of the stockholders of the Greenfield Electric Light and Power Co. has been called for the morning of Oct. 28 to act on a proposed consolidation of the Western Counties Electric Company and the Greenfield Electric Light and Power Co. The meeting will also act on a proposal to increase the common stock of the company and increase the number of directors from nine to 12. Consideration will also be given the changing of the name of the local corporation to the Western Massachusetts Electric Co.

The proposed consolidation of the Western Counties Electric Company and the local corporation is in order to economize in operation. The Western Counties Electric Company was formed about four years ago through a consolidation of the Easthampton and Amherst Gas Companies. H.
E. Duren is general manager of the company.

Should the proposed consolidation and change of name be approved, there would be no increase in the capital of the company but certificates of the Greenfield company would be exchanged for those of the Western Counties Electric Co. at present rates of value.

Net income of $178,222.32, over and above its fixed charges, was earned by the Boston & Maine Railroad in September. It is shown in figures made public today. This is an increase of $39,233.97 (or 28.2%), as compared with September, 1937.

Similarly, Boston & Maine in the first nine months of this year shows net income, after fixed charges of $465,886.20. This compares with net income of $373, 975.29 in the comparable period of last year, and is an increase of $81,910.91 (or 21.9%).

Thousands See NRA Parade

Greatest Peace Time
Review Held In Country

Line of March At Greenfield Nearly Five Miles Long Is Watched by 20,000 Persons;
450 Floats Shown.

Representatives and organization from each of the 26 towns in Franklin county took part Wednesday in an NRA parade and demonstration in Greenfield regarded as the greatest peace-time parade ever held in the county. In the line of march, which extended close to five miles through the main streets of the town, were upward of 10,000 persons and more than 450 decorated automobiles and floats.

The entire line of march was jammed with spectators, estimated to number more than 20,000 or one-third the population of the county, during the three hours that it took the parade to pass and counter-march past the reviewing stand at the common.

Heading the long procession as marshal was Gen. Frederick E. Pierce, with Lieut. Col. Herbert N. Kelley, chief of staff, and other members of the staff. Following them marched John W. Haigis, chairman, and other members of the county NRA committee. Leading the military and patriotic division, which was first in line, was Capt. Collin H. H. Kilburn, Capt. Francis Bratt, and Lieut. Clark G. McKinnon. To the Minute Tapioca band of Orange went the honor of being the first musical organization in line. Then came the Howitzer company, 104th infantry, of Orange.

Senator Coolidge Present
In the automobile which followed this company were United States Senator Marcus A. Coolidge of Leominster, former Mayor P. W. Doyle of the same city, and Judge of Probate Francis Nims Thompson of Greenfield.

After riding over the whole route of the parade Senator Coolidge, Mr. Doyle and Judge Thompson took places in the reviewing stand at the common, where Mrs. Doyle was already awaiting their arrival. Guests in the stand included the following:

John R. Sears, past commander of Edwin E. Day post, G. A. R.; Col. Frederick H. Payne, former assistant secretary of war and Mrs. Payne; Mr. Haigis; County Commissioners A. C. Burnham, William B. Avery and Samuel U. Streeter; Selectmen William A. Davenport, J. B. Kennedy and A. H. Dobbrow; Sheriff Fred W. Doane; Representative Fred B. Dole of Shelburne, Rev. P. J. Meehan and Rev. John Kusza; Rev. Dr. A. P. Pratt, Rev. John B. Whiteman, H. S. duMont, Willis H. Weissbrod, Frank C. Keegan, Perley E. Fay, Raymond Andrews, Philip Rogers, Waldo T. Ellis, parade secretary; George W. Pillsbury, Albert C. Rivers of Charlestown, A. J. Formhals of Erving, George C. Lunt, Charles H. Keith.

Many Children Marchers
The majority of those in the parade, either as leaders of divisions or sections. The parade itself presented a cross-sectional view of the agricultural, educational, industrial, commercial, religious, civic and fraternal life of the county. Some of the largest units in the parade were those composed of the children from practically all the leading schools in towns throughout the county. Another large junior group consisted of the Boy and Girl Scouts. In the Boy Scout section were five local troops, in addition to troops from Barnardston, Erving, Deerfield, South Deerfield, Shelburne Falls, Sunderland, Montague, Orange and Millers Falls.

Some of the most colorful sections of the parade were the marching groups from various business and industrial firms. Floats entered by Granges, as well as by industries also added much to the color of the affair. Some of the marchers dressed in patriotic colors, carried small American flags and NRA banners. Many of those who marched wore brilliant NRA hats and armbands.

One group which attracted unusual attention was composed of young women with scarlet cellophane capes and tall scarlet hats of the same material. Children in nearly all the school groups wore NRA hats they had made and carried either NRA banners or American flags. Employees of the John Wilson & Co., store wore red, white and blue capes in alternating ranks, while girls from the McLellan store appeared in soft blue smocks, each girl carrying an American flag and wearing a red and white NRA hat.

Northfield Represented
Through the courtesy of the Northfield Hotel, the two Northfield Schools were able to be represented in the line of march. Buses from the Hotel carried the Mt. Hermon and Seminary students to Greenfield to participate in the event. The Spencer Brothers float and old Ford were a feature of the automobile division, perhaps the best of the automobile company displays.

The town was nearly deserted yesterday afternoon during the parade. Only skeleton forces were on duty in the business establishments that remained open. A steady stream of northward cars that nearly every Northfield resident was present.

Musical Director: Hans V. Urbanek

The traditions of the Wiener Saengerknaben, sometimes known as the Singing Boys of Vienna, are deep and rich. Six years after the discovery of America, in 1498, the monarch Maximilian decreed that a daily mass must be sung by a chorus of boys, and ordered that the Court Orchestra train and tutor such a body.

This institution has continued generation after generation, growing from eight boys to eighty, many of them chosen from poor families for their exceptional talent. The boys have always occupied the ancient imperial palace, where they pursued academic and musical studies and were maintained by the state.

During July and August of each year the entire body of boy singers migrate to a mountain resort in the Tyrol where their spiritual guide and director, where a magnificent Alpine home, the Saengerknaben Hotel, has been erected for them. Here they enjoy sports and fresh air, preparing their bodies for the rigors of what often is a strenuous winter. Their concertizing tours take them to most of the European capitals where they are always hailed by the musical elite. Especially festive occasions for the boys are Sundays and high church holidays when they sing with the entire ensemble of the Vienna State Opera and the Philharmonic Orchestra.

The repertoire of the Saengerknaben includes the operas "Hansel and Gretel" by Humperdinck, "The Apothecary" by Haydn, "Bastien and Bastienne" by Mozart and "Wedding by Lanternlight" by Offenbach, many church and national choral works, as well as arias and songs.

Eligibility to membership in the Saengerknaben is subject to strict standards. Applicants must not only show marked vocal and musical abilities, but must manifest high qualities of character. At a recent election when only three places in the choir were vacant, more than six hundred boys clamored for admittance. When the time comes, as it always does for a boy's voice to change, he is transferred from the choir to other musical activities, but his maintenance is secure for three years thereafter.

In all of the operas they perform, they appear in full costume and play all of the adult and feminine roles.

Northfield Farms

The committee in charge of the Halloween supper and party held at the Sunset Inn last week included Mrs. C. L. Gilbert, Mrs. W. H. Whitaker, Mrs. Malcolm Billings and Mrs. Charles E. Leach. The committee wish to thank all who assisted to make the affair a success.

New Bridle Trail Plans Are Advanced

Path From Williamstown to Provincetown Would Pass Through Northfield Lower Villages; Will Open Scenic Areas

Horseback riding has never been a major form of recreation here, owing to its cost and to absence of sustained encouragement, either on the part of those who own their mounts or proprietors of riding stables whose activities have been casual and spasmodic. Local livery stables once catered to this form of sport but of course are now extinct. Individual horsemen who still ride may be counted on the fingers of one hand, so hard are saddles in comparison with upholstered cushions and so congested with fast-moving traffic are the highways.

Those who would ride under favorable conditions should be heartened by the knowledge that by next summer Franklin county residents will have access to the bridge path stretching all the way across the state from Williamstown to Provincetown. Much of the 400-mile-long trail has been laid out already under the direction of the Massachusetts Forest and Parks association. It will be completed in June and should stimulate a form of recreation once more popular than now, not only in those counties it traverses but among equestrians throughout the state by reason of the several optional spur trails being planned.

As the trail is planned at present, it will begin in Williamstown near the tri-state boundaries continue eastward close to the Vermont line passing through Northfield near the lower village and into Warwick near the Mt. Grace State Forest.

A number of branches and side routes of the trail are planned to allow riders a wide selection in viewing the scenic wonder of the Bay State. Several trails run southward from the main route joining existing trails and bridge paths in Connecticut.

Print Largest Issue Of Shopping News

The crew of The Northfield Printing Company accomplished the almost impossible this week in getting out twenty full pages of advertising for the Greenfield Shopping News. This issue was the largest one ever published since the Shopping News was established.

In the issue there were three double page spreads. Over 3,000 extra copies of this edition were run for extra distribution requiring over two tons of paper.

General Manager, Henry R. Gould says much credit for the accomplishment of this task was due to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Albert Lemieux, overseer of the composing room, and Mr. Harry Rowe, superintendent of the press room, the Wargo Brothers, linotypists and the rest of the Printing Company Crew.

North Church Notes

Last Sunday evening, the first of a series of musical services was given by the choir under the leadership of Prof. I. J. Lawrence, with Miss Daisy Holton as organist. The program included a preliminary service of hymns by choir and congregation led by Mr. Philip Porter, after which the choir of thirty voices sang the anthem, "The Day is Spent" by Parry Morris; Mendelssohn's "The Blest Abode," and several other hymns. A duet was sung by Mrs. Addison and Mrs. Foley; and a solo by Prof. Lawrence.

Following this there was an address by the pastor, Rev. W. Stanley Carne, and a solo, "The Stranger of Galilee," by Miss Dorothy Pearson, accompanied by her sister, Miss Mildred Pearson. It is the purpose of the Music Committee to present similar services on the last Sunday evening of each month.

Dr. Warboys of Australia, who has been holding evangelistic services in Greenfield and Barnardston, spoke at a meeting on Monday afternoon. He recounted a number of his experiences as an evangelist, gave a description of several places in Australia and made an earnest plea for the evangelistic spirit in church work.

The three groups of the Church Loyalty League, of which Rev. S. E. Walker is chairman, met at the church Monday evening to adopt plans for a house to house visitation to awaken an increased church attendance. The month of November will be devoted to making these calls.

The representatives of the church who attended the monthly dinner at the Hotel Weldon in Greenfield on Tuesday evening included: Rev. W. Stanley Carne, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Moody, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Norton, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Holton, Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Polhemus and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fornath. The speaker of the evening was the Rev. David Beach, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Springfield.

Missing Student Found In West Springfield

Miss Roberts Found By Police After Two Days' Absence From Seminary; Returned To Her Home In New Haven, Conn.

Miss Frances Roberts who disappeared from Northfield Seminary on Monday leaving word that she planned to get a job and help support her needy family was found Wednesday afternoon by police in West Springfield, Mass., where she was trying to find work. Miss Roberts, whose home is in New Haven, Conn., is now with her mother.

Moody's Estate To His Family

The will of William R. Moody of Northfield, former head of the Northfield Schools, has been filed in probate court leaving all his tangible personal property to his wife, Mary W. Moody. The residue of the estate is left to the First National Bank and Trust Co., as trustee, the net income from the trust fund to be paid to Mrs. Moody.

Upon her death the trustees are directed to transfer the principal in equal shares to Mr. Moody's children, Mary W. Moody, Constance A. Chase, Emma C. Moody and Beatrice H. Moody. The First National Bank and Trust Co., is named as executor. The will was dated March 11, 1927.

Quick Action Averts Serious Fire In Home

The adventures of Mrs. O'Leary's cow, made famous by the upsetting of a lamp that caused the Chicago fire, was repeated on a small scale a few nights ago. Mrs. Winifred Fellows' small dog jumped upon a table knocking over a lighted lamp, starting a blaze that would have been serious if Mrs. Fellows had not heard the crash and hurried to the rescue. She smothered the flames with a quilt. The damage was confined to a burned rug and chair.

Mails Work Well Under New Schedule

Mails for Northfield under the new schedule are now arriving with more regularity, the principal morning mail including the daily papers, is now being distributed at 9:50 a. m. Rural delivery carriers are now due to leave the office at 10:30 in the morning.

A full schedule of all mails at both the Northfield and East Northfield postoffices will be published in next week's paper.

Seminary News Notes

Plans Nearly Ready To Establish School Church

Plans are nearing readiness for the establishment of a school church at the Seminary. On Sunday there will be a meeting in Phillips Hall of any students who are interested in the organization. Mr. H. B. Ingalls, school chaplain, has announced the purpose of the church is to be "for the participation and expression of students."

Membership will be entirely voluntary and will be affiliated with the students' home church if she has one. Students who are not members of any church may become members here and upon leaving the Seminary will be given transfers to their home churches.

Field Day Gala Event

The annual Field Day exercises were held at the Northfield Seminary athletic field, Saturday, October 28th. The students dressed in costumes and marched by dormitory groupings. After the hall songs, a short exhibition of the best posture in the school was presented. The fall sports were played for the final championship teams, tennis, hockey, captain-ball, and volleyball. The tennis finals and hockey game were not finished because of darkness. Coffee and hot dogs were sold for the benefit of the Social Service Committee of the school.

Rev. Gallagher Speaks
Last Sunday, Rev. Buell G. Gallagher, President of Talladega College, Talladega, Ala., was the morning speaker at Sage Chapel. The speaker at the evening service was Dr. William Powers, Chaplain at the University of Syracuse. Sunday, November 5, Dr. Robert E. Speer of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions will lead both Sunday services.

Halloween Observed
Halloween was observed last Saturday night at the Seminary with entertainments ranging from a Chamber of Horrors at Marquand to a dance at Gould. Many spooks were observed but none caught.

High School Notes
Practice on the Senior Play, "The Million-Dollar Butler," began this week under the direction of Mr. Parmiter.

Last Friday Miss Mann directed a program in memory of the birthdays of James Whitcomb Riley and Theodore Roosevelt. On the program were Florence Barnes, A. French, P. Podlenski, R. DeVeer, R. Reed, D. Barton, E. Tenney and Hazel Black.

Hon. John W. Haigis Of Greenfield Who Declared Himself Available For Nomination As Governor or Lieutenant Governor

Warners Observe 50th Anniversary

Town Official and Wife Receive Friends and Acquaintances On Occasion; Reception Came as Surprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Warner of Main street received their friends Monday afternoon and evening on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. Many neighbors and residents of the town called and numerous messages were received from elsewhere. The reception came as a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Warner, as they had planned to spend the day quietly. Among the numerous floral tributes was a spray of chrysanthemums from the board of selectmen. Mr. and Mrs. Warner were married in Springfield, Mrs. Warner was Miss Lilla J. Hill of that city. They lived near Boston and 30 years ago moved to Northfield, where they have been important factors in the life of the community.

Mr. Warner has been active in public life. He served the town for some years as town accountant. He represented this district in the General Court in 1921 and 1922. He was presidential elector for Calvin Coolidge in 1924 and chairman of the Republican town committee for many years. He is a member of various organizations in the town and county, among which are the Trinitarian Congregational Church of Northfield, Harmony Lodge of Masons, and the Odd Fellows of Somerville, Mass. Mrs. Warner takes an interest in many activities among the women of the town, belonging to various organizations, including church societies and the W. C. T. U. The couple have one son, Roger Warner of Wayne, Penn., with N. W. Ayer & Son of Philadelphia, and two grandchildren.

Available For Governorship

Haigis Allows Use Of Name As Candidate

Greenfield Banker, Former State Treasurer, Makes Declaration Before Springfield Republican Group

John W. Haigis of Greenfield, state treasurer in 1929 and 1930 and prior to that for many years a member of the House and Senate, has declared that he will be available for the Republican nomination as governor or lieutenant governor in an address before a Republican gathering in Springfield last week.

Mr. Haigis is a well known Franklin County figure having been engaged in the newspaper business for many years. In his declaration of availability, Mr. Haigis made the following statement:

"I am absolutely against any attempts to tie up or control the convention in the interest of any man or any clique. It would be a personal gratification to me to be governor, to be lieutenant-governor, but my personal ambition counts for nothing. The best hopes we have is in the verdict of a free, unpledged meeting of representative men and women, whose only duty is to consider the common welfare. Upon it, in my belief, rests the permanency of free government."

"If, out of the deliberations of this group of our people should come to me, clear and unmistakable, a call to serve my party and this commonwealth, it would be a violation of all the principles about which I have been talking tonight, if I were not ready to do my part as a citizen and a Republican."

An Introduction

With the publication of last week's issue, Mr. William F. Hoehn retired from active work in connection with the business of the Northfield Herald with which he had been identified since its establishment in 1931.

Newspaper history in Northfield dates back some 25 years during which time "The Northfield Press" and later "The Tri-State Weekly" were published by local men. One period in this journalistic history was closed with the discontinuance of "The Press" in 1930. Another period commenced in April 1931 when a group of Northfield men, through popular subscription, established the present "Herald." It is hoped that the life of the Herald will mark a period which has no end.

By way of introduction, the new editor wishes to greet every reader of the paper. A great many have been in the office during the first few days of the editor's term. Many thanks are extended to them for their felicitations. If it were physically possible, the editor would like to greet each reader personally. It is sincerely hoped that our associations may be unusually pleasant and profitable to all.

A New Dress

Beginning with this issue of The Herald, the general style and page schedule will be changed in the interest of better reading. The editorial page has been moved inside as page two, the usual position for such a page in most newspapers. A general rearrangement of features to better locations in the paper was also made in the same interest.

Headlines on the front page have been adopted to a more general newspaper style conforming to present day practices. Headlines are meant to draw attention to certain articles which, in the editor's estimation, are more important or more worth reading than others. They serve as a guide to the reader in his selection of reading.

Three new features will be carried every week on the editorial page. An editorial cartoon by Kettner dealing with current affairs has been secured for regular publication. A short column dealing with recent books and their authors will be written each week especially for "The Herald." Beginning next week, a history of Northfield will be run each week in serial form for about thirty weeks on this page. The history is written in a more popular style than other published histories and should prove unusually interesting to every reader whether a resident of Northfield or not.

The Poet's Corner will be discontinued under that name. All poetry submitted for publication or obtained from other sources will be printed in "The Brighter Side" column. Editorials clipped from other papers will be headed as "Current Comment."

Correspondents have been secured in several adjoining towns to furnish The Herald each week with up-to-date news of their communities. It is hoped that The Herald may bring worthwhile news every week that is really news to the reader, while at the same time all the news of each town for the entire week will be covered.

Many readers not familiar with the news gathering process, will be interested in knowing that the Senior classes of Hinsdale High School and Thayer High School in Winchester are acting as correspondents for Hinsdale, Winchester, Ashuelot, Richmond and Westport. Their work as news gatherers has been included as a portion of their regular school work. In three weeks of operation, the scheme has proved unusually successful. It is hoped that it may continue throughout the school year and be continued by next year's class.

The editor will appreciate any suggestions from readers as to changes in The "Herald" which will be of mutual benefit to all. It is hoped that the changes which have been made will prove themselves worthy.

The NRA Parade

Franklin County should be proud of the splendid showing made on Wednesday in Greenfield. The parade and the huge crowd that witnessed it show clearly the county's attitude towards the President's recovery plan. With so universal backing, the NRA should bring about the anticipated results in a much shorter period than has been predicted.

Northfield was well represented in the parade and in the host of spectators. Business in the town was practically closed during the afternoon. That the town could make such a united effort to support the program shows clearly that the leaders of the town's campaign worked diligently to that end.

Haigis's Candidacy

Franklin County and Western Massachusetts citizens were pleased to learn of John W. Haigis's willingness to be a candidate for the office of governor of the Commonwealth. Rumors in the past months have clearly indicated that Mr. Haigis would accept the nomination if it were offered although no definite statement could be obtained from him.

The term of the present governor, a Western Massachusetts man although not of the same party, has clearly shown that men of remarkable ability are available in this part of the state. Party leaders in the East have been rather reluctant to consider a Western Massachusetts man in the past. However, present circumstances indicate that Mr. Haigis will probably receive the Republican nomination with little or no opposition.

The Herald pledges itself to support Mr. Haigis if he is nominated, not only because he is a county resident, but because he is a man well able to govern our Commonwealth in a capable manner.

Government Speeds

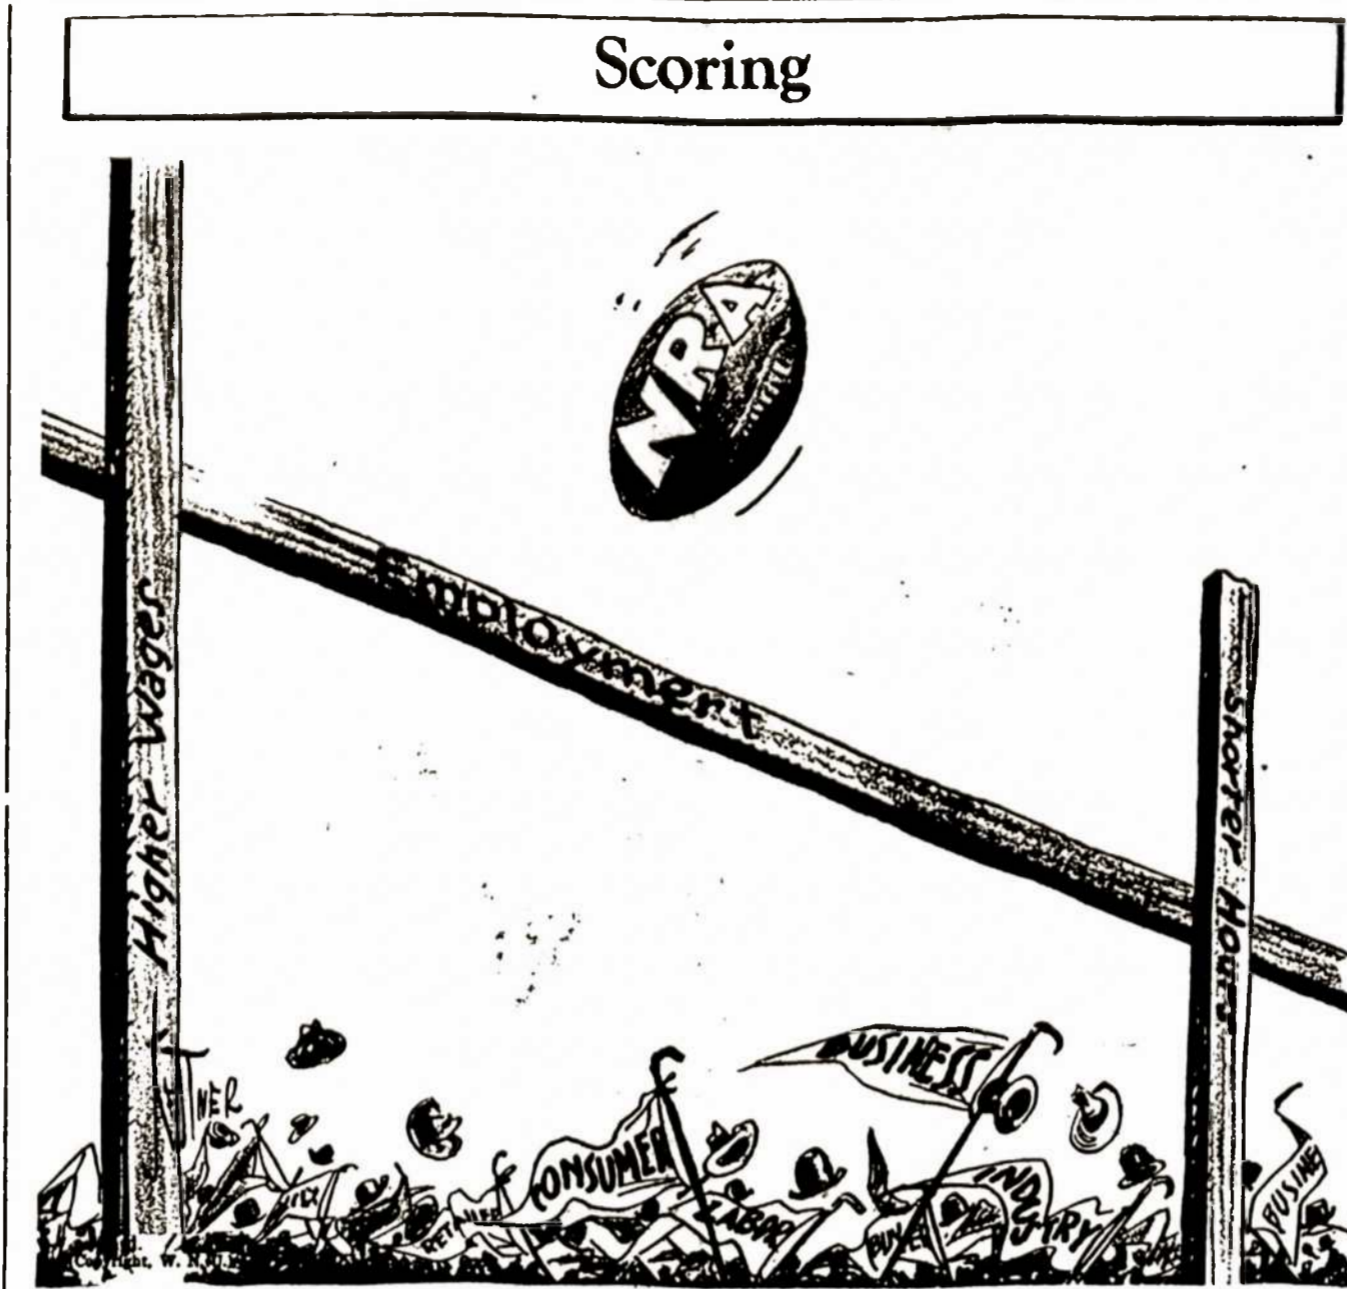

A recent announcement from Washington is that Presidential pressure has been applied to expedite plans for reopening banks, liberalizing credit and to make possible the building of low-cost homes.

Here is the prelude to a revival of major dimensions in the construction industry. For three or four years there has been a virtual lack of residential building. Accompanying it has been an abnormally high rate of depreciation on existing homes, due to poor maintenance. And the result is that the nation is short many thousands of homes.

The person who waits a few months or a year before building and repairing, is going to be confronted by a tremendous advance in costs. He's going to pay many dollars for what a few dollars will buy now. That is true of every phase of building—from the purchase of the land the house is to stand on, to the finishing of its walls. It is true of even minor repairs and additions—new roofs and steps, repainting, modernizing and repairing heating plants, renovating electric wiring, and everything else.

The "buy now" movement that is underway at present is very different from sporadic movements of the past which adopted the same slogan. This one is based on fact, not fancy—on the knowledge that recovery is actually underway, that residential construction is a tremendous influence in speeding it up, and that the era of bankrupt prices is definitely waning. Every citizen who can should "get in at the bottom"—and the opportunity won't be present much longer.

A bridge enthusiast wrote and published a book on the game. He sent a copy to a famous expert asking his opinion of it. A week later he received the following reply: "My dear sir: Your favor of the 10th instant, accompanied by book was duly received. I have read the latter very carefully. It seems a very good game, but I don't think it is as good a game as bridge."—Boston Transcript.

A Country Editor

(The New York Times)

Do young newspaper men of the big cities have day dreams, as their predecessors had, of buying a weekly in some "thriving" but still reasonably idyllic town, accumulating merit there and money in the bank and combining, by some magical process, a close attention to business with something of the leisure and pleasure of a country gentleman? The "outside" product of your printing plant would in itself be enough to give you a comfortable living. How fares it with our bulleth brethern, once thought so fortunate, in the days of darkness? Mr. Bruce Crawford, editor of a Virginia weekly, writes with appreciative humor in The New Republic of "A Country Editor."

Merchants soon to break advertise more than usual. If the editor or some member of the staff can get around to the store quick enough, he can trade out the advertising bill. Mr. Crawford is an accomplished "literary gent." Possibly some discount should be made for his imagination. He has known the joys of barter, he writes. He advertised to the farmers to bring in their stuff for subscriptions:

"Forget the cash—let's swap!" The results have been gratifying—turkeys, chickens, apples, potatoes, sorghum. One man, who is a farmer because he raises corn, inquired whether we would accept moonshine liquor. It is possible that our circulation may grow beyond all bounds.

Not the paid circulation. One copy passes from hand to hand, just as in the days of sixpenny papers a copy of The London Times, starting from the Hall, went through the parish, after suffering the ravages of beery fingers at the inn. As to editorial policy, Mr. Crawford is frank. The country editor has to cry for economy on the part of town and county officers and at the same time to try "chisel legal notices and job printing out of them." Well, "everybody" is bawling for public economy and special favors to himself. The rural editor-publisher, "if he must 'scrooge to survive, is no exception to the general run of pigs at the public 'eat."

Yet the editor with "any genuine social sensitivity never capitulates." If he has had to say something inconsistent with his previous opinions, he makes amends by a daring editorial. From communism or chaos to the "constructive" rural editor's motto, "Boost, don't knock," is no small jump. "I myself blow up quite frequently," but small-town public opinion has grown more tolerant. Only an attack on "capitalism" is the unpardonable sin.

Unfortunate Savoy

(The Boston Herald)

Savoy appears to be a victim rather than a culprit in the economic melee. The total valuation of taxable property in the little Berkshire town with its population of 307 is only $206,000. Every time the town spends $206, therefore, a dollar goes into the tax rate. Last year the town received $2800 from the gasoline tax money distributed by the state. This year the town gets nothing from that source. That alone would account for a difference of almost $14 in the tax rate. The town does not appear to have been spending money recklessly for the new rate of $62 is a fat increase of $13 over that of last year. The situation results from the operation of an act, passed in the small hours of the night that ended the last session of the General Court, under which, instead of distributing $6,000,000 to the cities and towns from the gasoline tax as in 1932, the state took $8,000,000 to reduce the state tax, and nothing was distributed to the municipalities.

Broad is the road that leadeth to destruction, but it isn't any too broad for the traffic. — Boston Transcript.

Outstanding Current Books For October

This week marking as it does our first November issue, a few brief reviews of the outstanding books for the past month should not be amiss. October literature has proved particularly lucrative in biography of pre-eminence. Foremost in this field is James Weldon Johnson's autobiography, "Along This Way" (Viking, $3.50). Perhaps the one Negro who can convincingly be termed a man of letters, this sartorially perfect gentleman has had a life both rich and varied, thoughtful and active. Through his services as barrister, musical composer, American consul at Nicaragua and Venezuela, Secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and Professor of Creative Literature at Fisk University he has exerted a profound influence on the life of Black America. And so carefully and critically does he write of it that already this book has been mentioned for a Pulitzer Prize award.

The appearance of "The War Memoirs of David Lloyd George" (Little, B., $4) comes as a distinct contribution to the history of that stirring period in world affairs. A reading of the book conveys the lesson that "stupidity in high places is a crime" and gives one an unwarped picture of the war by the only leader on either side that saw it in its entirety.

A beautiful and honest study of youth in the post war period is given us in "Testament of Youth" (MacMillan, $2.50) by Vera Brittain. A straightforward autobiography, this beautifully written story will wrench at the heartstrings of the most frigid.

Space permits only a casual mention of such other notable contributions to this field of literature as Violet Clifton's story of her husband, "The Book of Talbot" (Harcourt, B., $3.50) which Christopher Morely characterizes simply as "a very queer book," Floyd Dell's literary history, "Home Coming" (Farrar and R., $3) in which he gives his psychological appraisal of "the one human being that I know best," "My Battle" (Houghton M., $3), Adolf Hitler's own story, translated and abridged in such a manner as to present the best picture for America; and "The Two Franklins" (Little, B., $3.50), a study by Bernard Fay of the part played by Benjamin Franklin and his grandson, Benjamin Franklin Bache, in the founding of American Democracy.

Of the large amount of recently published poetry, three works indisputably attain the first rank. Edwin Arlington Robinson, thrice winner of the Pulitzer Prize for poetry, has brought forward "Talifer" (MacMillan, $1.75), a psychological drama in blank verse. The plot is the eternal triangle, but here plot is subordinated to form and character delineation. The essence of the poem seems to be Yankee common sense.

For those who prefer light verse and pleasant jingles, "Happy Days" (Simon and S., $2) by Ogden Nash, should prove delightful. Rhythmic indeed are such lines as: "Spring is what Winter, Always gazinta," or "Children aren't happy with nothing to ignore, And that's what parents were created for."

Quite different are the narrative poems of Robinson Jeffers found in "Give Your Heart to the Hawks" and "Other Poems" (Random House, $2.50). The first is the tale of a man who must pass judgment on himself for the murder of his brother. Being cast off from the human world he must give his heart to the hawks and after going from violence to violence kills himself to escape from his insanity.

In the line of fiction several good novels have recently appeared but none perhaps stands out as does "Three Cities" (Putnam, $3) written by Sholem Asch and translated by Willa and Edwin Muir. The narrative is long and powerful and skillfully executed. The greatness of this trilogy, however, rests upon the

(Author Unknown)

(From "Notes and Queries" in The Boston Evening Transcript)

I dreamed that I went to the City

To Heaven resplendent and

And after I entered that beautiful

By one in authority there I was told

That not a Vermonter was there.
"Impossible, sir, for from my

And a conqueror's palm and a the earth.

But after a day, or a month, or a year
They restless and homesick and lonesome appear,
And sigh for the land of their birth.

"They tell of ravines, wild, secluded and deep,
And of flower-decked landscapes serene;
Of towering mountains, imposing and steep,
A down which the torrents exultingly leap,
Through forests perennially green.

"They tell of the many and beautiful hills,
Their forests majestic appear.
They tell of its rivers, its lakes,
streams and rills,
Where nature the purest of water
distills,
And they soon get dissatisfied here.

LUMAN A. BARBER, Prop.

was discovered she pushed herself through a small window, about large enough for a small pig to crawl through, landing on top of a load of cobs on a hay rack, with four feet of wire surrounding her.

It was not until then that the cow was actually frightened. She jumped over the load of cobs, landed face downward on the ground. Her four feet turned up in the air.

Buehler felt sure the source of his milk supply was gone but he got a rope to see if he could pull the cow up. She didn't move or moan, was so situated, on her back between the wagon and building, that he could not move her.

Buehler decided to go to the house to get a knife to end her suffering, then thought to take her by the horns to straighten out her head and neck. The cow moved a bit then got up, shook her head at him, walked over to the tank, drank half a barrel of water, sighed a few times, trotted down to the pasture as if nothing had happened.

Buehler had cream for his coffee next morning as usual but it was a narrow escape for one perfectly good cow.

Mount Hermon

Prof. Morse To Speak

The Teachers' and Parents' Union will hold its regular meeting on Monday evening at 7:45 at the home of M. D. Birdsell of Mount Hermon. The program will consist of a talk by Prof. Morse on "The Boyhood of Some Famous Americans;—John Quincy Adams, Daniel Webster, Carl Schurz and Theodore Roosevelt." All who are interested in the schools are cordially invited. Transportation will be provided by Mrs. Charles Kehl or Mrs. Clarence Steadler.

Editor's Notice

A renewal has been received for the subscription of a Mount Hermon resident. As there was no name on the renewal blank nor on the envelope, the editor has no way of crediting the subscription. If the Mount Hermon resident who sent this renewal will please communicate with the office and identify his letter, the subscription will be properly credited.

Mt. Hermon News Notes

Dean Powers of Syracuse University addressed the students at the chapel service last Sunday morning. Rev. Buell Gallagher, newly appointed president of Taladaga College, was the speaker at Sunday vespers. After supper he led a discussion group in Crossley lounge. Rev. Gallagher is the brother of Mr. Melvin Gallagher, director of choral music at Mount Hermon.

About 140 boys met in Camp Hall last Friday night to try out for the Hermon Players. Mr. Thomas Donovan of the English Department will coach the plays, and Mr. Robert Burdick, also of the English Department, will have charge of the production. The Players will be divided into various groups—some as actors, others as stage hands, property men, and electricians. The first production will probably be a short play to be presented around Christmas time.

The first Junior party of the year will be held at Mount Hermon Saturday with the Hermon Juniors entertaining the Juniors from the Seminary at the football game and dance.

Dr. Bretney Miller of the medical staff spent last week-end at Groton.

S. Douglas Polhemus of Northfield is convalescing at the Brattleboro Hospital after an appendicectomy operation.

Last Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Rikert entertained at a bridge-supper. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Elliot V. Fleckles, Mrs. Laura Stevens, Mrs. Beulah Cooper, Miss Evelyn Dill, Miss Mary Baker, Mr. Thorleif Henriksen, Mr. Oscar Koehler, Mr. Robert Burdick, and Mr. Charles Scheid.

Mr. Malcolm Marshall and Mr. Malcolm Foster attended the Amherst-Wesleyan football game last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Axel B. Forslund had as their guest over the week-end, Miss Dorothy Pope of Danvers.
